

Dancing Under One Roof

Erinn Wagner & Audrey Scafati

Reporter: The Norwood Rec Dance Studio has been open since 1984. Instructor Paula Pelaggi says there's been a lot of dancers over the years.

PP: I've had many of my former students children and it's so great so fun. And it shows me that they loved to dance they know the program that we have here

KT: I've been dancing since I was two years old and so that's over 20 years that I've been here, only here... it's what I know and I don't want to go anywhere else.

Reporter: Pellagi says her studio's approach to teaching is different than other dance studios

PP: Everybody's under one roof. We categorize you by your age. And everybody's equal, we all come together as one team.

Reporter: and while generations of dancers keep coming back to the studio, they say the doors are always open for new dancers. Dance parent, Lauren Brent says she loves the environment.

LB: We love it here... from day one five years ago has been so welcoming to my girls. One of my girls was super duper shy and I never ever thought that she would get up on stage and dance like she did

Reporter: Instructor Kelly Lastname says she enjoys seeing the students improve and mature into better dancers.

KT: My favorite part about teaching is watching them grow everyday, seeing them get better

Reporter: the studio says they accept all types of dancers, even those with no experience... and joining won't break your bank account

PP: if you wanna just try it then you can. And we have a lot of girls that have stayed a long time with us because it's affordable from beginning all the way to the dance recital.

Reporter: The Norwood Rec Dance studio is open Monday through Saturday from the fall to it's spring recital. For more information go to <http://www.norwoodma.gov/>. Reporting from mustang magazine I'm Audrey Scafati.
